Principal's Message

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE - Yearbook Option

Although the past few years have been trying in terms of economic conditions, it appears that better times are ahead. Through good times and bad times, one thing remains constant in schools and that is the indomitable spirit and energy of youth. When our youth are motivated, encouraged and challenged, they easily overcome obstacles and excel at a task. This fine yearbook edition is an example of what our students can accomplish when meeting a challenge.

Best wishes to our 1984 Graduates and the Yearbook Staff.

All About Snakes

Snakes are not friendly. Snakes can bite you and it will hurt. Sometimes they attack you. Snakes can sneak up on you anywhere. A snake can live in a jungle. Once a snake came in a ladies kitchen when the lady was cooking. It bit her on the leg. She jumped.

Hercules and The Golden Torch

by Trina Cameron

One day Hercules was summoned from his home in Mounlatipos. King Zeus wanted Hercules to take his golden torch down to Kaledon. "But beware Hercules, Daedalus the evil wizard knows that you are taking my golden torch down to Kaledon. So be careful Hercules, guard my torch!" King Zeus said calmly. "I will King Zeus. That wizard won't get me." Hercules said in a proud voice. Hercules set off for Kaledon. When he got there he met Newton. He told Newton why he was there. On the way there Hercules got knocked out cold right on the spot. Then all of a sudden Newton heard Daedalus laugh. Newton said to himself "What a time for games." Daedalus snatched Hercules's belt. Luckily Hercules was wearing his ring. Tough luck for Daedalus. But Daedalus had called the Phantis Beast while Hercules was knocked out. The Phantis Beast was just about to get Hercules when all of a sudden Hercules woke up and belted that Phantis Beast right in the mouth. Hercules caught Daedalus and took him to his dungeon.
